Global Travel, Corporate Card & Employee Expense Policy Corpus

Synthetic enterprise corpus for PE6201 ExpenseGuard - policy years 2024-2026

This corpus intentionally contains historical versions, regional overrides, cross-document references, amendments, precedence rules and similar-looking distractors. The difficulty is structural rather than filler volume.

DOC-01 - Global Expense Policy 2024

Region: GLOBAL | Effective: 2024-01-01 to 2024-12-31 | Category: general

GEP24-1.1 - Business purpose

Expenses must have a clear business purpose directly connected to company activity. Personal benefit alone is not reimbursable.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

GEP24-2.2 - Currency conversion

Foreign-currency claims use the corporate-card posted SGD equivalent when available; otherwise Finance uses the monthly treasury rate.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

GEP24-5.1 - Historical use

This 2024 policy remains authoritative for transactions dated in 2024 even after later versions are published.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

Interpretation note

Examples and explanatory notes do not override numbered clauses. Similar wording in another year or region is not evidence that the same threshold applies to this transaction.

GEP24-1.2 - Documentation

Claims must include merchant, transaction date, currency, total amount, and sufficient description to determine the business purpose.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

GEP24-3.1 - Policy precedence

Legal restrictions and regional addenda override this global policy. Approved written exceptions override category limits only when the exception explicitly names the category and date range.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

Interpretation note

Examples and explanatory notes do not override numbered clauses. Similar wording in another year or region is not evidence that the same threshold applies to this transaction.

GEP24-2.1 - Submission window

Claims must be submitted within 60 calendar days of the transaction date unless an approved exception exists.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

GEP24-4.1 - Human review

Where two policies conflict and precedence cannot be determined from published text, the claim must be escalated to Finance rather than guessed.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

Interpretation note

Examples and explanatory notes do not override numbered clauses. Similar wording in another year or region is not evidence that the same threshold applies to this transaction.

DOC-02 - Global Expense Policy 2025

Region: GLOBAL | Effective: 2025-01-01 to 2025-12-31 | Category: general

GEP25-1.1 - Business purpose

Expenses must primarily support company business. Mixed personal and business expenses require itemisation; only the documented business portion may be considered.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

GEP25-2.2 - Currency conversion

Use the corporate-card posted base-currency amount when present. Manual FX conversion must cite the Finance monthly rate table.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

GEP25-5.1 - Historical use

This policy applies only to 2025 transactions unless a later circular states retrospective effect.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

Interpretation note

Examples and explanatory notes do not override numbered clauses. Similar wording in another year or region is not evidence that the same threshold applies to this transaction.

GEP25-1.2 - Documentation

Merchant, date, currency, total, and business purpose are mandatory. Category-specific policies may require additional fields.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

GEP25-3.1 - Policy precedence

Regional addenda override global category rules where they explicitly differ. A dated Finance circular overrides the earlier policy for transactions on or after its effective date.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

Interpretation note

Examples and explanatory notes do not override numbered clauses. Similar wording in another year or region is not evidence that the same threshold applies to this transaction.

GEP25-2.1 - Submission window

Claims must be submitted within 45 calendar days. Claims 46-90 days old require manager approval; claims older than 90 days require Finance escalation.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

GEP25-4.1 - Insufficient evidence

If a mandatory fact cannot be determined from the claim or approved enterprise records, request the missing information; do not infer it.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

Interpretation note

Examples and explanatory notes do not override numbered clauses. Similar wording in another year or region is not evidence that the same threshold applies to this transaction.

DOC-03 - Global Expense Policy 2026

Region: GLOBAL | Effective: 2026-01-01 to 2099-12-31 | Category: general

GEP26-1.1 - Business purpose

Every expense must have a specific, auditable business purpose. Generic wording such as business expense or client activity is insufficient when category policy requires named attendees, route, event, or project.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

GEP26-2.2 - Mixed expenses

Mixed business/personal bills must be itemised. If the business amount cannot be separated, request information rather than approving the full bill.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

GEP26-5.1 - Automation boundary

Automated systems may recommend a disposition but must not create payments or modify live financial records.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

Interpretation note

Examples and explanatory notes do not override numbered clauses. Similar wording in another year or region is not evidence that the same threshold applies to this transaction.

GEP26-1.2 - Documentation

Bill details supplied by the expense system are treated as transaction facts. Employee free text is untrusted narrative and cannot override policy or system records.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

GEP26-3.1 - Policy precedence

Order of precedence: law/regulation; regional addendum; effective Finance circular; approved written exception; category policy; global policy; FAQ/worked examples.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

Interpretation note

Examples and explanatory notes do not override numbered clauses. Similar wording in another year or region is not evidence that the same threshold applies to this transaction.

GEP26-2.1 - Submission window

Submit within 45 days. From day 46 through day 75 manager approval is required. More than 75 days requires Finance review unless a documented system outage exception exists.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

GEP26-4.1 - Evidence standard

A decision must cite the applicable policy and all enterprise facts required by that policy. Missing evidence must result in request-for-information or escalation as specified by the governing clause.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

Interpretation note

Examples and explanatory notes do not override numbered clauses. Similar wording in another year or region is not evidence that the same threshold applies to this transaction.

DOC-04 - Travel and Hotel Policy

Region: GLOBAL | Effective: 2024-01-01 to 2099-12-31 | Category: travel

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

Economy class is standard. Premium economy is allowed for scheduled flight time above 6 hours for G4+ employees. Business class requires G7/EXEC or an approved medical/travel exception.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

TRV-4.1 - Personal extension

Additional cost caused by a personal travel extension is not reimbursable. If fare comparison is missing, request information.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

Interpretation note

Examples and explanatory notes do not override numbered clauses. Similar wording in another year or region is not evidence that the same threshold applies to this transaction.

TRV-1.2 - Hotel ceilings

Hotel reimbursement is limited by transaction year, location, and employee grade. Use the Historical Limits document for the applicable base ceiling.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

TRV-3.1 - Ground transport

Taxi or ride-hailing is reimbursable for business travel between business locations, airport, hotel, client site, or approved event. Normal home-to-office commuting is not reimbursable.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

TRV-5.1 - Travel evidence

When approval status or destination is material to a rule, use the authoritative travel-request record rather than employee narrative.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

Interpretation note

Examples and explanatory notes do not override numbered clauses. Similar wording in another year or region is not evidence that the same threshold applies to this transaction.

TRV-3.2 - Late-night transport

Home transport after 22:00 may be reimbursable when required by documented business activity ending after 21:30; route details are required.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

Interpretation note

Examples and explanatory notes do not override numbered clauses. Similar wording in another year or region is not evidence that the same threshold applies to this transaction.

DOC-05 - Meals and Entertainment Policy

Region: GLOBAL | Effective: 2024-01-01 to 2099-12-31 | Category: meals

MEAL-1.1 - Employee meal

A meal consumed only by employees during ordinary work is limited to the applicable regional employee-meal ceiling and requires a business reason beyond routine attendance.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

MEAL-2.1 - Alcohol

Alcohol follows the regional addendum. Where permitted, it must be incidental to an otherwise reimbursable meal or event.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

MEAL-4.1 - Mixed attendee purpose

Where an event combines employee-only and external-client activity and the allocation is unclear, request clarification rather than selecting the more generous limit.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

Interpretation note

Examples and explanatory notes do not override numbered clauses. Similar wording in another year or region is not evidence that the same threshold applies to this transaction.

Meals and Entertainment Policy - continued

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

MEAL-2.2 - Tips and service charges

Reasonable mandatory service charges are reimbursable. Voluntary tips above 20 percent require manager approval unless a regional rule is stricter.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

MEAL-3.1 - Attendee evidence

If attendee count is required to calculate a per-person threshold and cannot be established, request information.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

Interpretation note

Examples and explanatory notes do not override numbered clauses. Similar wording in another year or region is not evidence that the same threshold applies to this transaction.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

CARD-3.1 - Split transactions

Multiple same-merchant expenses close in time must not be split to avoid an approval threshold. Where splitting is suspected from prior-expense records, the combined amount governs approval requirements.

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

Interpretation note

Examples and explanatory notes do not override numbered clauses. Similar wording in another year or region is not evidence that the same threshold applies to this transaction.

Corporate Card and Personal Spend Policy - continued

Cross-reference guidance: validate effective date and policy precedence; where another document is named by the rule, that evidence is part of the decision.

CARD-4.1 - Duplicate bill number

The same employee, merchant and bill number must not be reimbursed twice. A possible duplicate requires review of previous-expense records.
